Welcome Letter

On behalf of the Montgomery County, Maryland Food Council, we are honored to release the second edition of the Food and Beverage Guide, which highlights the diverse array of food and beverages produced in farms and kitchens located in our County or made by businesses headquartered here.

Encouraging residents and businesses to eat and drink locally is central to our mission of creating a more robust and sustainable food system in our County. There are extensive economic, health, and environmental benefits of eating locally: we support businesses in our community, create jobs for local residents, and minimize our carbon footprint.

This year our Guide has expanded to include fruits, vegetables, dairy, meat and other products from Montgomery County farms, making it even easier to source fresh ingredients locally. We've also provided information on where all products can be purchased and added engaging stories about the businesses to facilitate connections between the people in our community who grow and make food and their neighbors who eat it.

The 2017-18 Guide formally launches the new MoCo Made brand, created in partnership with the Montgomery County Economic Development Corporation to celebrate and increase the visibility of our county's vibrant local food and beverage community. Look for Eat Local, Drink Local, and Local Love Added stickers at farmers' markets, farms, supermarkets, and other retail locations around the County!

Check websites for product availability, which ranges from online ordering to local farmers' markets, small retailers, and regional and national supermarket chains. Please note that this guide is not comprehensive and all information is subject to change. Product information has been provided by the businesses.

We hope you enjoy these delicious opportunities to support our local businesses and residents.

Cheers!
Heather Bruskin
Executive Director

About the Montgomery County Food Council

The Food Council is an independent nonprofit connecting all individuals and organizations committed to cultivating a robust, sustainable, and equitable food system in Montgomery County, MD. The Food Council was formed in 2011 and has 25 members, including chefs, food entrepreneurs, and representatives of local government, nonprofits, and business.

Please join us in our efforts by participating in one of our working groups, which meet monthly and are open to the public:

Food Economy: Support our County's farmers and food and beverage artisans and make connections between local producers and consumers.

Environmental Impact: Protect and improve the environmental resources of Montgomery County related to agriculture and food, such as soil, water, and biodiversity.

Food Recovery and Access: Increase recovery of and equitable access to more healthful food for County residents by building the capacity of food-related organizations, reducing food waste, and strengthening collaboration.

Food Literacy: Improve eating habits through advocacy and education on healthy food choices, cooking skills, school and community gardening, food safety, and food marketing.

Or support our mission by subscribing to our newsletter and encouraging others to eat and drink locally!
