WELCOME

2020 and 2021 have been incredibly challenging for County residents and business owners. The COVID-19 crisis revealed the weaknesses in our food supply chain and illuminated the vital importance of supporting our County's food and beverage businesses and farms. On behalf of the Montgomery County Maryland Food Council, we are proud to release the fifth edition of our Food and Beverage Guide. It features a diverse assortment of locally made and grown products, including baked goods, craft beverages, and farm fresh delights—numerous options to support local foods and beverages produced by farms and kitchens in our County or made by businesses headquartered here. We thank our local businesses, farms, and restaurants who have provided critical support in their communities during a time when food insecurity has risen by over 50%. View our online searchable Food and Beverage Guide.

Eating & drinking locally benefits our economy, environment, & health

A key component of the Food Council's mission is to strengthen connections between County food and beverage businesses and farms and DMV area consumers and retailers, to increase visibility and market opportunities for MoCo Made products. Eating and drinking locally brings significant economic, environmental, and health benefits. When we buy locally at farmers markets and CSAs, we double the dollars invested in our local economy when compared to shopping at national chain stores. Just picked produce from a Montgomery County farm is more nutrient dense than produce grown far away. Local food choices promote sustainability by reducing transportation emissions.

Creating jobs in our communities

Every business in this Guide participates in the Food Council's MoCo Made program, which includes educational, business development, and networking opportunities for Montgomery County entrepreneurs. We host in-person and virtual community engagement events such as MoCo Made Days and Happy Hours, to connect food and beverage businesses with each other, Montgomery County residents and large-scale buyers. MoCo Made window decals, shelf labels and stickers can be found at farmers markets, farms, supermarkets and other retail locations around the County.

This guide is not comprehensive and subject to change. Product information has been provided by the businesses.

Join our efforts!

The Food Council is an independent nonprofit connecting individuals and organizations committed to cultivating a robust, sustainable, and equitable local food system in Montgomery County. Formed in 2011, it has 25 members including hunger advocates, food entrepreneurs, farmers, educators, and representatives of local government, nonprofits and business.

We invite you to join the Food Council's efforts by participating in one of our working groups: Environmental Impact, Food Economy, Food Education, and Food Recovery and Access. All groups meet monthly and are open to the public. Visit mocofoodcouncil.org/priorities to learn more.

Thank you and cheers!

Heather Bruskin
Executive Director
